What to expect in this week's episode:

An introduction from Heart of Glass and With For About 2020 curators Cecilia Wee and James Leadbitter.

Artist and writer Selina Thompson and her tabby cat Bella are back to share more thoughts on lockdown life.

Delson Weekes and Vicki Hawkins share a collection of magic moments each other and with us, to feel more grounded and appreciative of life when lockdown ends.

We join Touretteshero Jess Thom aboard the Starship Biscuit for a report on the current situation.

We join a conversation with Esenam Abra Drah and Cecilia Fofa Ashaley about their mental health advocacy work in Ghana.

We join game designer Youngju Kim, artist Hwa Young Jung and researcher and writer Ahream Woo as they have a conversation about how the COVID-19 pandemic has impacted them.

Playwright, director and producer Marjorie H Morgan shares with us a newly written piece The Mis-education of a Reluctant Moonraker.

Artist and activist Bobby Baker and her dog Biscuit will show us a delicious buffet of strategies and solutions for living and working.

Migrants in Culture update us on their Culture New Deal.

Writer, activist and founder of the Irish Women's Liberation Movement, Máirín de Burca tells us how we can learn from past experiences of activism.

We'll watch an animated performance about racism in the UK by artist and performer Alexis Maxwell.

Johanna Hedva, writer, artist, musician, and astrologer, reads to us A DECADE OF SLEEPING from their upcoming book.
